

Selecting Blog Section/Category

Contributed by sample
Friday, 11 August 2006
Last Updated Monday, 14 August 2006

When creating a new blog there are specific Section/Category the admin would like each member to place their blog in. When you first start out, there is a Member Blogger/New Blogs - Section/Category where new members can start. At the top of the "Intro Text" page you will see the pull-down menu where Section/Category can be chosen.

The Section and Category layout looks something like this:

- Section (main section holding all Blogs)

- Category (areas under the section heading holding each individuals specific blog)

Here is picture showing how to select the correct Section/Category:

There will only be one Section in this site where all blogs will be placed, that is 'Member Blogger.' Each member who is given blogger capabilities will then be assigned their own Category to create their posts. For example, when govharass posts in his blog, he will choose the 'Member Blogger/govharass Blog - Section/Category.

New members are to choose the Member Blogger/New Blogs - Section/Category to start out with. When blogger status is approved the admin will then create the Category for that member.