

Why TI's have WON !!!

Contributed by govharass
Friday, 25 August 2006

First off we are being targeted and harassed for a reason, and I have come to the conclusion one of the primary reason is to keep us quiet. Although there are undoubtedly other reasons for their attacks, I believe the primary reason is to just keep us immobilized and quiet. They are afraid what we can do if allowed to speak and organize. Every moment I spend on the web or deciding what I will do next, I am severely hit and harassed with head hits. They don't want us to mobilize any type of effort or even think. For these reasons I believe they are incredibly afraid we may get our message out, and organize an effort against them; therefore, they attack and keep us down. By doing this they are expending an awful lot of energy and most likely funds to attack us little insignificant TI's, which in their minds must make their effort quite valuable, and us TI's quite valuable targets to keep quiet.

This entire effort against us is purely psychological manipulation to demoralize and deteriorate us, and our ability to live and mobilize. Every hit is to tear us down and feel weak and incapable of defending ourselves. Every voice transmission is geared to psychologically manipulate us into thinking and believing what they may choose to make us believe. These again take a lot of effort, time and most likely funds to accomplish. If we understand their psychological manipulation efforts, and disregard or mute their efforts, then all the time and effort they put into concocting these scenarios is done for nothing.

Again, these attacks are to hold us down and make us inefficient and immobilized. If we don't let that happen, and stay mobilized and working to make things happen which are beneficial to our efforts, then they are the ones how have become inadequate and unable to accomplish their objective.

The cost associated with keeping their gang/multiple stalking effort active must be great. I know whenever I move around the city, there are always numerous PERPS on the prowl. This has to be paid for. They run around town, squacking on their cell phones, organizing and executing their street theater attacks. They must be getting some type of payment for their effort, which must be reaching very high sum by now. My belief is these signal transfers are coming directly from people through the mode of telepathy. That means there is always someone on call to monitor and control my actions. And once I move, there is always a team of these PERPS swarming around me. This has to cost a substantial amount of funds. For the reasons I've stated, by making their efforts ineffective, and by understanding these efforts are geared to psychologically reducing their target, we can and have won by making their efforts inefficient and meaningless, and by driving their cost through the roof.

I also believe these attacks and monitoring is telepathically originated because there is always feedback to actions and movement I make. They constantly have to boost their cause and ego by sending "V2K" messages such as; "We've Won, We've Won, We've Won this One," "You won't win," "We won't let you get away with this." These again are psychological manipulation tools. Just think about the pamphlets the dropped over enemy territory during a war.

They try to make you believe what is just NOT true with these inadequate attempts to manipulate and deteriorate you mentally. There is always someone monitoring, reading, and listening to my thoughts and feelings. These people also interact and try to effect my actions.

There is one or a few constantly at the helm, which is able to call on a network to spring into action in the event it is needed. They are capable of and do move into any situation or location I go into. I see and feel their presence, whether it is their interactions with the surrounding people or their attacks they inflict.

Again, there must be a reason for this and I believe it is to keep me quiet and incapable of mobilizing and speaking to others. Their efforts are to manipulate and tear down the target. I have read account after account of others in similar situations.

To understand their purpose and objective and to make their efforts and funds expended ineffective means the TI has WON.